Willingly I go to bed, and easily I rest my head.
I dream at night of peace and light.

There I'll see the Lady of the Lake.
From the mists she comes to me at night.
Robed in midnight, crowned in stars,
Queen of moonlight, near yet far,
Though men say you are the Devil's own,
Still I trust your wisdom Lady fair.
When I've reached the [2. lost the] golden height,
Will you hold me in your sight?
Will you help me Lady of the Lake?
Will you guide me Lady of the Lake?

Willingly I go to bed, and easily I rest my head.
I dream at night of peace of light.

Lady of the Lake is the titular name of the ruler of Avalon in the Arthurian legend. She plays a pivotal role in many stories, including giving King Arthur his sword Excalibur, enchanting Merlin, and raising Lancelot after the death of his father. "Years ago a friend asked if I would write some music for a proposed musical version of Marian Zimmer Bradley's novel the Mists of Avalon. The project never went forward, but it did inspire me to write this song, intended to be sung by the character Kevin the Harper." — Georgia Lockwood
